When they reached the street again the ghost had disa peared. The Schwartzes had gone to bed.

EAGLES DINE A G. W. PRESIDENT And Grady, McCarren and the Grand

Worthy One Speak. New York Aerie, No. 40, Fraternal Order of Eagles, gave a dinner last evening in Delmonico's to Henry D. Davis, the grand worthy president of the order, elected last August in Denver, largely through the influence of the branch of this city. He is in town on business connected with the order. Timothy D. Sullivan once defeated Mr. Davis for president and then beloed him to be elected later. Congressman Sulzer was the presiding officer and the star speakers were Senators Grady and McCarren.

Mr. Davis extolled the order and told of its rapid growth. He said there were 2,300 members in New York city and 250,-000 members in 1,400 aeries in the country. He told how the order had sent $75,000 to at the Slack-Campbell wedding on May 5.

Senator Grady, speaking to the toast of "Liberty," told how he and McCarren had been feeding on the husks up at Albany during the winter, and said that both had wondered if they ever again should see the inside of Delmonico's and be in the swim. He said that McCarren had fared better than he at Albany, because McCarren always had his valet and chef with him. The Senator declared that McCarren might

The Senator declared that McCarren might retire from office if he wanted to, but so far as Grady was concerned he felt it would be a great public loss if he sheudl not go back to Albany.

Senator McCarren, in speaking to the sentiment of "Truth," said that for once the eternal fitness of things had been recognized in his selection. He said he had all his life endeavored to speak the truth and he well knew the "terrible handicap" such a course was to a man who persisted in it. A telegram was read from Timothy D. Sullivan regretting his inability to be present and President Davis eulogized him as "that grand character and noble citizen, a leader among leaders in this order." Other speakers were Congressman Goldfogle, Julius Harburger, J. Fanning O'Reilly and Justice George F. Roesch.

CHINATOWN MISSION NIGHT.

Thirteenth Anniversary Celebrated-$100 Raised for Fresh Air Work.

Chinatbwn was very quiet last night. The cause of it was the anniversary celebration of the Rescue Mission, which was held at Mission Hall, 17 Doyers street. The mission was founded thirteen years ago. Col. William H. Rowe, president of the mission, was in charge of the celebration. He has been confined to his bed for some weeks by illness, but got up to be present The low ceilinged room of the mission was racked with reople for several hours and the offering, amounting to over $100, will be devoted to the fresh sir fund for the children cared for by the Hope Mission School, all of them living in Chinatown.

Thomas J. Noonan, assistant superintendent of the mision, and Mrs. Noonan of the Hope Mision School arranged the celebration. Those who delivered addresses were the Rev. George E. Strobridge of Washington Square Methodist Eriscopal Church and Edward Sketchley, who described his experiences in Chinatown long before a mission was thought of in "Twenty-five Years in Chinatown."

Two meetings were held in the Mission, one at 9 o'clock, the regular midnight meeting being held at 10:30. The latter extended until 1:30 A. M.

This midnight meeting has been held every night without a break since the Mission started. Those who assisted in the musical programme were Miss May Storrs, Prof. and Mrs. Baker and Mrs. John Goetschius. tendent of the mision, and Mrs. Noonan

Four Big Ships in a Bunch

A procession of big ships came in at Sandy Hook last night, beginning with the Celtic at 9:30 P. M. Next was the St. Paul, at 10:20, and an hour later came the Umbria. La Touraine was twenty minutes behind the Umbria. All these left the other side on Saturday of last week, the Celtic Queenstown, the St. Paul Southampton, the Umbria Liverpool and La Touraine Havre.

The Gaekwar of Baroda is on the Celtic.

IN SOCIETY.

Belmont Park has been a society rendezvous since Thursday. On Thursday Miss Cynthia Roche was quite a centre of attrac-tion. She arrived from abroad the previous day. Arthur Scott Burden, whom she is to marry soon, was of course of her party. Contrary to the usual costume of expectant brides, who revel in shabbiness before emerging in the full glory of trous-seau finery, Miss Roche was particularly smart in an old rose chiffon cloth costume with Neapolitan straw trimmed with Neapolitan straw trimmed with Aberican beauty roses. Miss Roche has been visiting with friends in Long Island since her arrival. The expectation is that the wedding cards will be issued very shortly.

Among the New Yorkers due to arrive here Wednesday on the Oceanic are Dr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb, who have been abroad but a few weeks; Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly and Miss Ruth Vanderbli Twombly. The Twomblys will go at once to their country place. Florham Park, Madison, N. J., where they will remain until July, when they will go to their Newport cottage. During June Mr. and Mrs. William A. M. Burden and their child will be their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt will be in evidence on Thursday week, May 24, at the Baltimore Horse Show and at the Philadelphia show on May 28 at Wissa-hickon Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry and their daughters, Miss Angelica Gerry and Miss Mabel Gerry, will not join the Newport contingent until late in the summer. They sail on Tuesday for Europe. Mrs. Lawrence Barnum and Miss Barnum, who sail Tuesday, will return in the early autumn. Among those sailing on Wednesday, to be absent all summer, will be Mr. and Mrs. Emory H. Potter. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Moller and their daughter and son, Miss Adelaide Moller and Edward C. Moller, sail on Fri-Moller and Edward C. Moller, sail on Friday, May 18. On the following day Mrs. Joseph Marié and Miss Marié of 48 East Twenty-sixth street sail on the steamship Princess Luise. They will go to Naples, Rome and Florence, Homburg and Schwalbach and will return by way of France and England in October. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Livingston Belafield, who are now away on their honeymoon, sail Saturday for a Continental trip.

Miss Katherine Keen Ulman of 360 West Fifty-eighth street will close her house here on Tuesday and go to Fort Robinson, Neb., where she will make her home with Major and Mrs. Robert Dodridge Read, the latter her only sister, who were married here in the chantry of Zion and St. Timothy on May 5. Major Read is a native of Ten-

Tuesday. Prince Taxis, who is making quite a stay on the side, was the guest over last Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, at their country place at Hyde Park. Vicomte Albert D'Oyley, Viscomtesse Julia D'Oyley and Duchess Lante Della Rovere were recent arrivals. Marquis and Marquise Alfred Dusmet de Smours are on their way to Europe on the Kronprinz Wilhelm and Admiral Sir Gerard Henry Noel of the British navy, Lady Noel and Miss Noel, who have been visiting relatives on this side, sailed for home on the Baltic Wednesday. Count and Countess Luserne de Campiglions sailed on Wednesday for Holland. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Franklin Emory, who will live Mrs. Percy Franklin Emory, who will live in New York, have been passing their early married days at the Laurel House, Lakewood, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slack will not be absent long on their bridal trip and will live on their return at 148 Madison avenue, where the bride has resided with her mother, Mrs. Herbert Parsons. They have a new home in East Fifty-sixth street, not yet quite in readiness. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cass Ledyard, Jr., are to live here in a house in East Seventy-second street presented to them by Mr. Ledyard's father, Lewis Cass Ledyard. They were married recently at Cambridge, Mass., and sailed for Europe on the Kronprinz Wilhelm on Tuesday for a summer's Continental trip.

Some of the spring brides have worn labe veils worth small fortunes. Miss Mary Renwick Sloane, at her nuptials with Joseph Livingston Delafield, wore one of duchess lace. Miss Rosalie Coe Campbell, whose lace. Miss Rosalie Coe Campbell, whose marriage with Henry Slack also took place on May 5, wore a voluminous point lace veil. Miss Harriet Coleman Delafield, when married to Jarvis Pomeroy Carter on April 28, had on a superb Brussels lace veil that fell about to the edge of her long train. The veil had been worn also by her grandmother. The point lace veil worn by Miss Beatrice Kinney at her nuptials with Henry La Montagne, on April 30, was the most costly and beautiful seen here for years.

The Massachusetts resorts are much in favor with the foreign diplomats this sea-son. Lady Henry Mortimer Durand and Miss Durand will soon go to Lenox, where a house has been rented by the British Ambassador, now in England, for a short stay. The German Ambassador and Baroness von Sternburg have taken a house at Beverly, which is within driving distance of many interesting old towns. The Italian Ambassador and family will be in a cottage at Manchester-by-the-Sea. The Russian Ambassador and Baroness Rosen have taken the Colidge place at Magnolia. The Belgian Minister and Baroness Moncheur will summer at Hamilton on the North Shore in a cottage which belongs to the American Ambassador to Russia.

You must know that in affairs of dress the Hackett, Carhart & Co. store wields a broad and deep influence with the women folks of New York and vicinage. It is the bounden duty of this store to present in full every fad, every fancy, every phase of women's outer apparel-it must necessarily dare to have the later-day things and in greater quantity than the average shop affords. With such great stocks on constant view some styles are overlooked; not because they are less pretty than others-

The condition which influences the organisation of this series of sales is inevitable to the store doing a great volume of business—such a condition springs to being beous groups are small: but collectively they form a vast and impressive showing.

Again, our tailoring and designing rooms are constantly adding choice creations, made up from short lengths of materials. Every garment involved is of lightweight fabric, specifically designed for summer service.

This whole great collection has for the above reasons been subjected to the most radical price concessions.

COL. CLARENCE GOES TO SEA

And Nails Tugboats in the Act of Stealing the Water He Is Policeman Over.

Col. M. Clarence Padden, who, since he became Water Register, has been saving water for the city and getting greater revenues for his department by enforcing the laws relating to the use of water meters, has transferred his activities from the land to the sea. After he had raised the receipts on land for the first quarter of this year to $124,000 more than those of the corresponding quarter of the previous year, he got after the tugs and water supply boats, which for years have been tapping the hydrants along the river fronts without of the black flag craft, as he calls them. Whenever he found a tugboat milking the city hydrants he boarded the tug and if he found that the master had no permit he made the captain give up the prescribed license fee under threat of putting a prize crew aboard.

Col. Padden first tried establishing line of patrolling inspectors along shore but the inspectors didn't catch anybody. Then Col. Clarence borrowed a hoat from Dock Commissioner Bensel, and has been cruising up and down the rivers in search of the black flag craft, as he calls them.

So successful was the scheme that between May 1 and May 10 Col. Clarence collected $5,042. During the last few days the receipts have fallen off a little because the contrabandists have kept a sharp lookout while they were hitched to a hydrant, and the moment they espied a Dock Department tug in the distance hauled in their lines and scooted. Col. Clarence cays he will break up the practice entirely.
